Nortown works on collaboration project Barris Sott assists with economic growth effort

Warren and Macomb County to develop a business district that will be beneficial to all.

Nortown, through a larger collaboration, the Van Dyke-Eight Mile Business Association, is working to develop a cross-county business district. The collaboration would involve partnerships with the City of

Providing their legal expertise to this effort are Barris Sott attorneys Doug Stein, Rebecca Simkins Seslar, and Matt Bredeweg. What an exciting endeavor with regional impact!

New affordable housing developments!

Dickinson Wright assists with two predevelopment matters

Dickinson Wright is helping to continue the commitment to affordable housing. Within one month, the firm agreed to assist with two development projects. Genesis CDC is developing 100 units of affordable housing. Assisting them in this undertaking are attorneys Anthony Jenkins and Carl Oosterhouse.

Grandmont Rosedale CDC is developing three units. Attorneys Chuck Goedert and Mark High have assisted with the finance and City of Detroit closings. This is an amazing amount of services dedicated to increasing affordable housing in the City of Detroit.

DECC greenway project

Butzel Long assists with maintenance agreement

The effort to establish and preserve greenways in the City of Detroit received a boost from Butzel Long. Attorneys Thomas Kabel and Michael Brennan assisted the Detroit Eastside Community Collaborative with a contract that provides for maintenance of what will be the largest greenway in Detroit.

This collaboration involves the entire community, including block clubs and local youth. What a great way to assist communities and have an impact for years to come!
